A diagram of a computer core showing the interaction between the computer core, processor, control unit, instruction memory, registers, and arithmetic logic unit. The diagram illustrates the flow of data and execution logic within the computer's core components.