COURSE SYLLABUS – Fall 2009

Overview: Columbus' arrival in the Americas set in motion the violent fusion of European, African, and indigenous civilizations that would create a uniquely Latin American society. This course will examine the economic, social, political, and cultural evolution of that society up to the eve of independence at the beginning of the nineteenth century, discussing the contributions of Spaniards, mestizos, indigenous peoples, and Africans. Topics include Pre-Columbian societies; the conquest; colonialism; indigenous, slave, and urban societies; and the decline of the Spanish empire.

Assignments:

- Attendance and informed participation, 20%
- Document Analysis #1 (due in class, Wednesday, September 23), 5%
- 5-page Paper (due in class, Friday, October 16), 15%
- Midterm exam (in class, Monday, November 2), 10%
- Document Analysis #2 (due in class, Wednesday, November 18), 5%
- Source Report (due in class, Monday, November 23), 5%

Readings: The following books are available for purchase at the Book Mark:

- Mark Burkholder and Lyman Johnson, Colonial Latin America, 6th edition (required)
- Bernal Diaz, The Conquest of New Spain (required)
- Kenneth Andrien, Andean Worlds (required)

Grading Policies and Late Work: You may request an extension for either the 5-page Paper or the Source Report provided that you make the request at least one week before the due date. Any other late work will be penalized at the rate of 1/6 of a letter grade per day (for example, an A- paper turned in two days late would receive a B+) with exceptions for documented illnesses and other emergencies. If you cannot avoid turning an assignment in late, please talk to Sujay in advance.

Attendance and Participation: Attendance at all meetings is mandatory and will be recorded. Please make every effort to ensure that other activities do not interfere with regular attendance. If an absence is absolutely unavoidable, please talk to Sujay in advance. 2 or more unexcused absences will certainly not help your grade, 4 or more unexcused absences will lead to an automatic reduction of your overall course grade by 1/3 of a letter grade for each additional absence. Participation is not entirely voluntary – at times students will be called on to contribute to discussions.

ACADEMIC HONESTY POLICY

Every Gustavus Adolphus College student now agrees to abide by the academic honesty policy and honor code as a condition for enrollment. The honesty policy stipulates:

In all academic exercises, examinations, presentations, speeches, papers, and reports, students shall submit their own work. Footnotes or some other acceptable form of citation must accompany any use of another's words or ideas. Students are especially cautioned that quoting from or paraphrasing from electronic sources without proper citation is as serious a violation as copying from a book or other printed source.

In addition, the policy states "a student may not submit work that is substantially the same in two courses without first gaining permission of both instructors if the courses are taken concurrently, or permission of the current instructor, if the work had been submitted in a previous semester."

In this course, any violation of the academic honesty policy will carry the following penalty: failure of the assignment and, at the discretion of Dr. Rao, failure of the course. Students who dispute an allegation of academic dishonesty may request a hearing before a joint student/faculty honor board.

As your instructor I will attempt to clearly define the level of authorized aid appropriate to a particular assignment. However, you are responsible to ask questions about any reasonable doubt you have regarding my definition of authorized aid.

Under the honor code policy, the proctoring of exams is at the discretion of the instructor. I do intend to proctor exams in this course.

Finally, an integral part of the honor code is non-tolerance of violations. Under our code students are not expected to police others' actions. Rather, you agree to report violations of which you become aware. Failure to do so will constitute an honor code violation in this class.

DISABILITY SERVICES

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act (1990) work together to ensure 'reasonable accommodation' and non-discrimination for students with disabilities in higher education. A student who has a physical, psychiatric/emotional, medical, learning, or attentional disability that may have an effect on the student's ability to complete assigned course work should contact the Disability Services Coordinator in the Advising Center, who will review the concerns and decide with the student what accommodations are necessary.
